

Braya Renewable Fuels Welcomes First Vessel for Renewable Diesel Export

Vessel docked at Braya's jetty

On Thursday, March 28, 2024, Braya Renewable Fuels welcomed the first fuel export vessel to its dock at the Come by Chance Refinery in Newfoundland and Labrador, Canada. The vessel will carry ~300,000 barrels of renewable diesel to international markets for use by Pilot Travel Centers LLC. This significant milestone comes just nearly a month after Braya announced commercial operations.

The production of renewable diesel at the Come by Chance Refinery presents proven alternatives to fossil fuels and significantly decreases the carbon emissions linked to heavy-duty transport.
